After losing her father in mysterious circumstances at a young age Young Alice hit the road with her Mom who took a job as a field journalist. Now fourteen ,Alice Massey has traveled the world. Through her travels Alice has seen and done amazing things. Though she is very bright Alice has grown reckless as she pursues assignments with her Mom. As a result of some of her recent actions, her Mother has been charged with child endangerment. Alice is now being sent to live with her estranged Grandmother by social services. If Alice has any hope of Seeing her Mom again and fixing her mistakes, she must prove she can keep herself out of trouble. Alice's Grand mother now runs a Bed and Breakfast out of her old house. Though she rarely gets guest she has to prove she can provide for Alice. She has been warned by Social Services that she must keep Alice under control or she will loose custody. More than anything Alice's Grandmother want's to prove to her Granddaughter she is not the same person who pushed her family away years ago. Now Alice is Stuck in one place for the first time, Alice finds herself in a small town with small people. Though she is very adapted to dealing with the extraordinary she doesn't have much experience with the mundane. Alice must now deal with going to public school for the first time. With the new challenges this brings Alice finds she has made an arch enemy on her first day. A girl named Billy has found a way to make everyone at school hate her. She also meets an extremely odd boy named Reggie who as it turns out lives next door to her along with his seven other siblings. On top of all that Alice is given an over zealous social worker that seems to have it in for her. Though completely baffled at the mundane world Alice doe's not haft to wait long before she is dealing with the extraordinary again. She finds a journal that was written by a person that some how knows the secrets of everyone in town. Among these secrets may be the truth about how Alice's father really died. After coming in contact with the journal the lines of reality are blurred as She starts to actually see peoples memories and the author himself can read minds. Upon further study she finds out the author of the journal has been kidnapped and in great danger by those who want to use his gifts. Alice must stay out of trouble if she want's to get her Mom back. If she doesn't help how ever this person could be lost ,and the truth about her dad will go with them. With no one else to confide in Alice finds an unlikely accomplice in the strange boy who lives next door. Together these teenage wanna be sleuth set out to find the author and rescue him before it is too late. Along the way they cross paths with the mean girl from school who gets caught up in Alice's craziness. Upon finding a vital clue to the authors where about's Alice is discovered by the authorities and given to social services. In a last all or nothing effort Alice escapes to rescue the author. In the act Alice and the girl Billy are taken by the people who kidnapped the author. Reggie who has avoided capture follows to rescue Alice.

When brought to the Author they discover he is being used for his special gifts. When Alice and him meet they both go into a comma where Alice relives the authors memories. In those memories she finds the truth about how her Dad died. Reggie follows the kidnappers and leads authorities to Alice and Billy. Now that the author is out of danger he leaves to avoid discovery. Alice is now left to deal with the full scope of consequences of her actions. She is taken away from her Grandmother by social services and is to be put in a juvenile detention center. Before all is lost she is helped out by the author who has some powerful legal friends. Alice is allowed to stay with her Grandmother and will be allowed have her mother to visit with good behavior. She has also made two new best friends in Reggie and Billy. Through these experiences Alice comes to grip with her fathers death and becomes a much wiser person. Alice and her family have a chance now to be put back together.
