

Goals in The Film Industry

As an actor, the duty of transmitting emotional energy to the audience is my main priority. The feeling of knowing an audience is touched or affected in any manner by the visualization and hearing of a story being portrayed by characters I created fills me up internally. My goal is to have all the stories and ideas in my mind being projected in films, as well as being able to act in some of those characters if the cast fits me. When I first started making films, I was in high school. The work was at the beginner's level and fantasized of someday working on professional films, directing them, acting in them, producing them, and of course writing them. I'd love to compete with the best in the industry, the best actors, work with the best producers/directors. I'm willing to sacrifice sleep, partying, and other temporary pleasures to achieve this. Blood, sweat and tears will be shed if they have to be. I say this in the most humble way as possible, yet confident that my hard work and talent will be recognized in the big leagues. Some actors just enjoy the field of being an actor and acting only. That's totally fine, not everyone is made to also work behind camera, creating stories to make them reality. They cast and cast and cast hoping to someday land a good part in a film, t.v show or any good paying job in acting. My mindset is a bit different, instead of hoping, casting for years until finally landing a good role. I prefer creating my own productions and cast myself for the characters. I'll still be casting for other productions, but at the same time I have my own productions to focus on. With a great team, a professional passionate team that enjoys the show business as much as me, there's endless possibilities of what can be created. The money will not be a concern, one way or another, the budget will be there and the film will be produced, it will take some time, but it will be done. I'd love to learn everything there is about filmmaking on a professional level, from the screenplay writing to directing the best shots and edits to make the film a lot more interesting. It may sound like too much in my plate but the human is capable of many things, the human is capable of more than what he/she can imagine. Going to the moon seemed impossible, but it got done. Going to the deep floors of the oceans was terrifying but somehow humans made it possible. The best, the legends and the greatest live by persistence and hard work, winning is not easy. It will take failure, again and again until it is achieved. My idol and a man I identify myself with a lot is Marlon Brando. I've read his book and his views on life are extremely similar to mine, I was shocked on how alike we viewed the world, the animals, humans, the film industry. He had his own production company as well as being a brilliant actor with Academy Award wins. I wish I could've met him before he passed away back in 2004, I was only 9 years old but it would've been a lifetime experience. I hope to one day produce a film based on his life, the book I read gave me the idea that I can portray him and act him out from his first film A Streetcar Named Desire to the Godfather. In this program I trust that I will receive the necessary tools and the opportunities that I must execute to raise my chances of success. Not guaranteed to become a 5 star director after i'm done, but I will be on the road to one. Thank you for having me in your program, I will learn as much as I can everyday on set, at home or at any time.
