

To date,

Cris has showed that he already possesses many of the attributes that are needed to successfully run a recording session.

Punctuality, willingness to experiment and attention to detail are some of Cris' strong suits when it comes to making music.

He is quite familiar with Pro Tools and doesn't shy away from trying new things to obtain fresh sounds.

Also, during a session of mine, he picks his moments and doesn't interrupt or over comment. That way the artist stays nicely focused.